Make Sure You Understand Recent TRICARE Telehealth Policy Changes

FALLS CHURCH, Va. – At the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Defense Health Agency (DHA) made several temporary updates to the TRICARE benefit regarding telehealth. These temporary policy updates allowed you to get care safely during the COVID-19 pandemic. The DHA has since updated these telehealth policies.

“During COVID-19 lockdown mandates, telehealth policies created opportunities for TRICARE beneficiaries to receive medical care,” said Elan Green, chief of TRICARE Health Plan’s Member Benefits and Reimbursement Section at the DHA. “Now, the DHA understands that telehealth visits are still essential for many families. We’re pleased to continue offering audio-only telehealth services.”

It has now been more than two years since the start of the pandemic. Some of these policy changes have recently expired. Meanwhile, others have become permanent. Listed below are the policy updates.

Audio-only Telehealth
Audio-only telehealth appointments are now a permanent TRICARE benefit. This is effective as of July 1, 2022. This means everyone, including those without access to live, two-way audio and video technology, will continue to have access to telehealth services.

Cost-shares and Copayments
TRICARE placed a temporary waiver on costs at the start of the pandemic. This encouraged the use of telehealth services. That waiver recently expired. This means you’ll have to pay cost-shares and copayments once again.

Telehealth costs are like in-person care costs. Your costs depend on your beneficiary category, health plan, and appointment type. Active duty service members (ADSMs) don’t pay out-of-pocket costs. Active duty family members (ADFMS) who have a TRICARE Prime plan don’t pay either, unless they use the point-of-service. As outlined in the TRICARE Costs and Fees Sheet, the POS option allows you to see any TRICARE-authorized provider without a referral. But, the POS option only works for nonemergency services.

You can find specific costs using the TRICARE Compare Cost tool or the TRICARE Cost and Fees Fact Sheet.

Using Telemedicine Services
To find a provider who offers telemedicine services, you can use the Find a Doctor tool. You can also look up providers by going to All Provider Directories. Keep in mind, not all services are available through telemedicine. So, it’s important to check with your provider to see which options are available to you.

Referral or pre-authorization may apply for your telemedicine visit. If you aren’t sure, you can reach out to your TRICARE contractor.

If you’re overseas, the country where you live must allow telemedicine. Your provider must also have a license to practice where you live. You can reach out to your TRICARE Overseas Program Regional Call Center for more information.

Telemedicine is a safe and secure way to connect with your health care provider online. You can learn more about telemedicine services by going to the Telemedicine page on the TRICARE site.

Why It’s Important to Inform DFAS of Your Life-Changing Events

What can you do as a retiree to ensure your retired pay comes to you accurately and on time? Keep your account up to date.

As a retiree, the sooner you alert DFAS to any change that might affect your pay, the more timely and accurate your pay will be. Keeping your account updated includes making sure your mailing address, email address, banking information, allotments, tax withholding status, and beneficiary choices are current.

Be sure to report any change of life events as soon as they happen. These life-changing events might include:

- Moving
- Marriage or Remarriage
- Divorce
- Birth or adoption of a child
- Death of a spouse or child

Some changes, especially those regarding Survivor Benefit Plan coverage, have a one-year time limit, so it is very important that you notify DFAS of life-changing events when they happen. When you notify us, be sure to include photocopies of supporting documents, such as birth or marriage certificates.

If you are making a change to your SBP coverage because of a life event, you can now use the convenient, online askDFAS upload tool on DFAS.mil to submit your DD2656-6 (Survivor Benefit Plan Election Change Certificate) and supporting documents. And when you submit a DD 2656-6, you’ll get email status notifications to the email you provide in askDFAS, or if you send it by postal mail or fax, to the email in your myPay account.

Keeping your contact information updated is key to staying informed. DFAS occasionally sends out correspondence regarding changes in the law that affect your pay. If your mailing address is not correct and you are not on myPay, we have no way of notifying you about changes. DFAS is also communicating more via email to provide more convenient customer service, so you will be better informed if you have a current email in your myPay account.

The easiest way to keep your account updated is to use myPay. You can use myPay to change your mailing address, your email address, your direct deposit information, some allotments and your tax withholding status. You can also use myPay to verify payment information, including allotment amounts, or tax withholding, or check your Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) coverage on your RAS.

If you’re not yet using myPay, it’s easy to get started and add your email address for status notifications. We have a handy step-by-step, downloadable “Get Started with myPay” guide available at: https://www.dfas.mil/RetiredMilitary/manage/mypay/

DFAS continues to develop helpful tools and information for you and our website puts it all at your fingertips: https://www.dfas.mil/retiredmilitary.
GEN MICHAEL LANGLEY BECOMES THE MARINE CORPS' FIRST BLACK FOUR-STAR GENERAL

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- U.S. Marine Corps Gen Michael E. Langley was promoted to the rank of general on Aug. 6, 2022, in a ceremony at Marine Corps Barracks Washington.

Commandant of the Marine Corps Gen David Berger promoted Langley, who became the first Black Marine to be promoted to general.

"43 years we go from our first African American general to now our first - I think leading to many more - four-star African American generals," said Berger, paying homage to LtGen Frank E. Peterson.

Langley was joined by friends and family at the ceremony, including his father Willie C. Langley, who is a proud Air Force veteran. Gen Langley repeatedly talked about his father as his greatest mentor.

"My daddy told me to aim high, so I aimed as high as I could and found the few and the proud,” said Gen Langley, a comment which was met with laughter amongst the crowd, most of whom were Marines.

Langley was born in Shreveport, Louisiana, and grew up on a variety of military bases as a child before settling in Texas. He graduated from the University of Texas at Arlington and commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in 1985. Langley has served in the Marine Corps for 37 years and saw his promotion as a sign to others that Marine Corps service rewards those who work hard to achieve their goals.

"The milestone and what it means to the Corps is quite essential. Not because the mark in history, but what it will affect going forward, especially for those younger across society that want to aspire and look at the Marine Corps as an opportunity," said Gen Langley.
A Checklist to Help You Prepare for 2022 TRICARE Open Season

By TRICARE Communications

FALLS CHURCH, Va. – TRICARE Open Season starts in the fall. That’s the time when most families can make changes to their TRICARE health care coverage for next year. Preparing for open season now can help you make the best selection for you and your family later.

“Each year, open season gives you the chance to either sign up for TRICARE, or change your current coverage,” said Dr. Danita Hunter, chief of TRICARE Policy and Programs. “Before open season begins, give yourself time to review resources and ask questions about your options. This will help you choose the right coverage for you and your family.”

Are you enrolled in or eligible for a TRICARE Prime option or TRICARE Select? If yes, open season applies to you. However, it doesn’t apply to active duty service members (ADSMs). To learn more and to help prepare you for open season, follow this five-step checklist.

1. Know the dates and your choices
   Open season starts Nov. 14 and ends Dec. 13, 2022. When considering your options you have these three choices:
   - Stay in your plan.
   - Enroll in a health plan.
   - Change health plans or switch between individual and family enrollment.

2. Review coverage details
   Being familiar with the plan types can help you pick one to fit your budget and your health care needs. TRICARE Prime is your managed care option. It offers the most affordable coverage. With TRICARE Prime, you have a primary care manager (PCM) to manage your routine care and refer you to specialists for specialty care.

   TRICARE Select is a self-managed care option. It offers the most freedom of choice. You aren’t required to have a PCM. You can choose your own TRICARE-authorized provider and manage your own health care. You’ll have lower out-of-pocket costs if you use a network provider.

   Compare TRICARE plans to learn more about each health plan.

3. Consider all cost factors
   The amount you pay for coverage depends on your health plan and who you are. For example, costs vary if you or your sponsor is an ADSM, a National Guard or Reserve member, or a retiree. To find your health plan costs and to compare costs, use the Compare Costs tool.

4. Consider your needs for next year
   Do you expect any big life changes in the upcoming year? The open season may not be the only time you can update your coverage. As outlined in the TRICARE Qualifying Life Evens Fact Sheet, certain life events may change your health plan options. Moving, marriage, birth of a child, or retirement from active duty are all Qualifying Life Events (QLEs). A QLE opens a 90-day period for you to make eligible enrollment changes. If you take no action during open season, you’ll have to wait until you or a family member experiences a QLE to make changes to your TRICARE Prime or TRICARE Select plan.

5. Update your information in DEERS
   Being able to use TRICARE depends on you keeping your information current in the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS). If you don’t show as eligible for TRICARE in DEERS or your information is incorrect, it could prevent you from using your TRICARE benefit. You may also miss important information and enrollment deadlines.

   Remember, you don’t have to wait until open season to think about your options. Start planning now. Find more info and resources on the TRICARE website.
Uniformed Service Members: Take advantage of your FEDVIP enrollment period.

The U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is proud to welcome you to the Federal Employees Dental and Vision Insurance Program (FEDVIP).

Sponsored by OPM, FEDVIP is a voluntary, enrollee-pay-all dental and vision insurance program. It replaced the former TRICARE Retiree Dental Program (TRDP). In general, retired uniformed service members, their families, and survivors are eligible for FEDVIP dental coverage and, if enrolled in a TRICARE health plan, FEDVIP vision coverage. In addition, family members of active duty uniformed service members who are enrolled in a TRICARE health plan are eligible for FEDVIP vision coverage. Please note: Opportunities to enroll outside of open season are limited.

FEDVIP is popular among the more than 3.5 million people already enrolled in the program, giving the program high marks for quality and value. With 12 dental and 5 vision carriers to choose from, FEDVIP offers great flexibility when selecting the right coverage for you and your family, such as:

- regional dental plans as well as nationwide dental and vision plans with international coverage
- most plans feature both high and standard options
- a choice between three enrollment types: self, self plus one, or self and family

The Federal Benefits Open Season is your annual opportunity to enroll in, change, or cancel a FEDVIP dental and/or vision plan. This year, open season runs from November 14 through December 12, 2022, with coverage effective January 1, 2023.

To familiarize yourself with the program, explore BENEFEDS.com/military. BENEFEDS is the secure online portal to enroll in FEDVIP, to research FEDVIP’s current list of carriers and plans, and use the plan comparison tool to view rates, benefits, and coverage information.

During open season, you may view informational webinars or access the Virtual Benefits Fair by visiting BENEFEDS.com/military. The Virtual Benefits Fair is an online health fair that houses 2023 FEDVIP plan information in a single location, allowing military families to browse exhibits, view and download plan brochures, and chat with BENEFEDS and FEDVIP representatives.

Don’t miss this opportunity! Consider including FEDVIP in your retirement plan today.

BENEFEDS is administered by Long Term Care Partners, LLC, with oversight by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management.

Employment Compensation from a Foreign Government Can Impact Your Retired Pay

Did You Know: Your military retired pay can be impacted if you receive compensation from a foreign government without advance permission?

The U.S. Constitution prohibits federal government employees from accepting compensation, gifts, or titles from foreign governments without the prior consent of Congress. This prohibition also applies to military retirees. Congress granted its consent to retirees seeking foreign government employment so long as the retirees obtain the advance approvals required by 37 U.S.C. § 908. Retired Marines who are considering accepting foreign government employment for compensation must receive approval in advance of receiving the compensation. In general, the Secretary of State and the Service Secretary from which you retired must both approve the employment/compensation. If the foreign government payment or award is limited to speeches, travel, meals, lodging, registration fees, or non-cash awards, you only need approval by the Service Secretary from which you retired. The purpose of this restriction is to prevent the exercise of undue influence by foreign governments on retired members of the United States military.

If a retired Marine accepts compensation from a foreign government or foreign government controlled entity for employment or for speeches, travel, meals, lodging, registration fees, or non-cash awards without prior approval, the Marine’s retired pay becomes subject to a withholding and/or debt, generally in an amount equal to the total amounts received from the foreign government.

To request approval of compensation from a foreign government for employment, speeches, travel, meals, lodging, registration fees or a non-cash award, retirees should contact Headquarters, U.S. Marine Corps (MMSR-6) at the address listed below. Retirees may also review the Service Instructions listed below that are publicly available on the web or by contacting the appropriate POC listed below. There are other laws that restrict some retirees from representing a foreign government entity before a U.S. Government agency or official, or that may require additional approvals, such as the Foreign Agents Registration Act and the International Traffic in Arms regulations. Retirees should consult with their employer’s human resources or general counsel offices for guidance on whether these other requirements apply.

Since its inception in 1916, the Junior Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (JROTC) program has been viewed as a strong program that provides youth with much-needed skills in citizenship and leadership.

The Marine Corps Junior Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (MCJROTC) is looking for a few good men and women to serve as instructors at various high schools throughout the United States and overseas. The Commanding General, Training and Education Command, Quantico, VA, certifies MCJROTC instructor applicants. Marines may apply for approval as a MCJROTC instructor within one year of the effective date of retirement. PHOENIX -- In December 1941, Richard Harold Russell was 19. He was living in Michigan, going to college and enjoying his youth while being away from home. Russell can still remember the moment his life course would take a detour.

He recalls driving in his car when the news flash came on the radio, “Pearl Harbor has been attacked by the Japanese.” Russell, like many other Americans, took this as a call to action. Wanting to do his part and serve his country, he left college and joined the Marines.

“At that time, it was the thing to do,” stated Russell. “The Marine Corps was the most active group [at that time] so I got after it.”

Precisely one month after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Russell was at Marine Corps Recruit Depot Parris Island, South Carolina, determined on his path to be a Marine. Now a private first class and a rifleman, he joined the 1st Marine Division, at that time in Norfolk, Virginia.

“It was a very quick process. I was there probably 30 days at the most,” recalls Russell. “On Easter day of ‘42, we got aboard ship and went through the Panama Canal. We went to Samoa and we – the 7th Marines – were the defense outfit for those islands.”

As time has passed, some memories have faded. But August 7, 1942, is a date Russell remembers vividly. Thousands of miles away from home on foreign soil, Russell celebrated his 20th birthday in the company of his comrades with Easy Company, 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, in the Samoan Islands.

“I was part of a very important part of the Marine Corps. It makes me very proud. The Marine Corps taught me everything I know; respect for my superiors… just taught me to be a good man. I have had a good life.”

-- Richard Harold Russell, U.S. Marine Corps World War II Veteran

1,876 miles away, the first wave of U.S. troops landed on the beaches of Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, to secure Allied control of the island and thwart Japanese attempts to gain access to Australia and New Zealand.

Months after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and many days at sea, the men of Easy Company had landed on Samoa, fully anticipating the mission ahead of them. As battles continued in the Solomon Islands and casualties mounted, the 7th Marine Regiment stood ready to join the fight.

“When we were on Samoa, we would get all the stories from the ships stopping there of what was happening on Guadalcanal. So we were fully prepared for what faced us,” said Russell. “When we got aboard ship, we knew where we were going, and we were prepared for it.”

By September 1, 1942, Russell and the rest of the 7th Marine Regiment were en route to Guadalcanal. In mid-September, Russell stepped onto the beaches of Guadalcanal and became a part of one of the most significant battles in 1st Marine Division’s history. He can still recall the sights and sounds of war.

“The sounds – just horrible. The sounds of machine guns and rifle fire and mortars. Just a horrible experience,” said Russell. “When you’re in a battle like that, you’re really there just thinking of survival. Eliminating the Japanese – that’s all we had in mind.”

A few weeks prior to Russell’s unit arriving on Guadalcanal, there had been a big battle to secure a ridge surrounding the airfield. It had been fought for and secured by Edson’s Raiders. The 7th Marine Regiment became responsible for holding the ridge, known as Bloody Ridge or Edson’s Ridge.

“We were on Bloody Ridge with 1st Battalion, and we learned there were a bunch of [Japanese] coming from the other direction. We were asked to go man this other ridge and left 1st Battalion to man Bloody Ridge by themselves. It was difficult. But we did man the ridge,” said Russell. “After a day or two on there, the Japanese hit F Company and broke through their lines. Our commanding officer gathered a bunch of cooks and whatever he could get and they went back onto the ridge and eliminated the Japanese. They restored the position.”

For relentlessly manning the ridge, the Marines of 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, received a Presidential Unit Citation, an award given to units who display extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy.

After that battle, Russell remembers the gruesome aftermath.

“I had the opportunity to go back behind the lines. I grabbed three or four canteens from the other guys and was filling them with water and bringing them back,” explained Russell. “When I was down there, I saw a lot of Japanese all deceased. I had to walk right by them coming back.”

The Division was on Guadalcanal until January 1943, when they turned over control of the island to the Army. They then boarded ships and made their way to Melbourne, Australia. Although leaving the island was a relief, said Russell, it was hard. Before leaving, they visited the cemetery at Guadalcanal and paid their respects to their fallen comrades.

Russell remembers arriving to a hero’s welcome and the people of Australia regarding them as “saviors.” All that, though, came at a cost.

“I learned a lot about life on Guadalcanal,” Russell said. “When you see a bunch of dead bodies, and you see them deteriorating in the hot sun, it just makes you appreciate life.”

Although it was bittersweet, Russell explained that they enjoyed their time in Australia. After all, there was still more fighting that awaited them. After rest and refit in Melbourne, they moved on to Cape Gloucester.

“We landed on Cape Gloucester on December 26. Our battalion was charged with establishing the beachhead and protecting it,” explained Russell.

Nine days into the battle, Russell was wounded when a mortar landed near him and severely injured his knee. He was evacuated and subsequently hospitalized for approximately five months. He was awarded the Purple Heart. He later returned to Guadalcanal where the Division had now established a camp. He was examined by a doctor and deemed unfit to stay in the fight, therefore he would return stateside. Despite all he had witnessed and endured he could only think of his fellow Marines.

“I had mixed feelings,” said Russell. “I hated to leave all those guys because I knew where they were going; they were headed to Peleliu. That’s where I lost two of my very good friends.”

Russell was ultimately discharged from the Marine Corps due to his injuries.

80 years later Russell’s contributions, along with the thousands of other Marines who fought alongside him, remain a steadfast part of the Division’s history and identity. Today, “GUADALCANAL” remains inscribed on the 1st Marine Division logo, along with the Southern Cross, which is the constellation under which Marines fought on Guadalcanal.

As he prepares to celebrate his 100th birthday and simultaneously commemorate the 80th anniversary of the battle that shaped his young life, he expresses gratitude for what the Corps has given him.

“I was part of a very important part of the Marine Corps. It makes me very proud,” expressed Russell. “The Marine Corps taught me everything I know; respect for my superiors… just taught me to be a good man. I have had a good life.”

CHANGE TO HHG POLICY

The DOD Per Diem, Travel, and Transportation Allowance Committee has announced a change regarding the time limitation for Household Goods (HHG) shipment in connection with retirement.

This changes the time limitation in the Joint Travel Regulations (JTR) for household goods (HHG) transportation in connection with retirement, placement on the temporary disability retired list (TDRIL), discharge with severance or separation pay, or involuntary release from activity duty with readjustment or separation pay. Currently, Service members are authorized to extend their HHG transportation for up to six years, but are required to request the extension on a yearly basis. Under the authority in 37 U.S.C. § 453(e), the proposed change will increase the existing time length for the movement of HHG from one year to three years from the active duty termination date. After the three-year period, requests for extensions may be approved on an annual basis not to exceed a maximum of six years. This proposed change will not apply to non-temporary storage (NTS). NTS requirements will remain as currently written in the JTR. This change is effective 24 June 2022.

To request an extension, retired Marines should contact any Distribution Management Office (DMO) or local transportation office. You will need to provide a copy of your retirement orders for the extension to be granted.

Point of contact for additional information is:

DFAS pays military members when the Board for Corrections of Naval Records (BCNR) rule in their favor. If you received a decision from the BCNR and you do not agree with it, write the Board and explain your reasoning. Reference the appropriate address on page 2 of the DD Form 149. If you would like to check the status of your request contact the BCNR directly at (703) 604-6884 (Navy/Marine Corps).
